

IMPACT

Missouri has become a destination for film. The state's motion media industry employs more than 7,600 workers at above-state-average wages and adds several billion dollars to our economy annually. (VIA MERIC)

ECONOMIC IMPACT

The Sundance Grand Jury Prize winner is drawing crowds nationally as the second highest grossing Indie film for 2010. "Winter's Bone" brought $800,000 to the region, employing more than 50 local professionals and actors during the two-month production run in Spring 2009.

COMMUNITY PARTNERSHIPS

We are members of the Springfield Regional Arts Council, the Chamber of Commerce and the Missouri Motion Media Association.

MFAS provides financial and marketing support to SATO48, Springfield Little Film Festival and other events that promote our members' work.

Thanks to the producers of "Winter's Bone," MFAS will offer grants to members in 2011 that will help fund marketing efforts for members' projects.
